

General Terms & Conditions

This website is a summit promotion website. The content serves only one purpose: convincing you to join us in Berlin on October 18 and 19, 2017. We'd love to get you there, so probably we will overstate certain messages.

Humans err. We might have to change the program. We might have other speakers, than the ones who promised to help us. We might have to change the topics. No reason to get your money back for that.

We organize a Summit. We are not an airline, a travel agent, a catering company, or a hotel booking company. We show you tips where you could get your logistics support. At your own risk, of course.

When you order a ticket, you pay the bill. If you do not pay the bill within 30 days, you pay 5% per month extra for us chasing your payment. You participate in the Summit at your own risk and using your own insurance.

If you do not show up, you do not get your money back. We should charge you for disappointing your fellow summit participants, but we are not that hard. Just try to be there, or ask a colleague to take your place.

Whatever statement is made by whatever person, it is your responsibility to use it at the right time and for the right purpose. When we link to someone's website or social profile, they are responsible for what they mention.

We are based in Belgium and the judges of the courts of Oudenaarde are the ones that will take the decision if you do not agree with us. If you do not agree, please go visit another web site.